Driver Killed in M-18
Intersection Accident

Roy Allen Jenkins, 23, of Warren, was killed Friday, August 26, when the automobile he was driving rolled over three times pinning him underneath the car.

Crawford County Sheriff deputies reported that Jenkins was traveling north on M-97 in South Branch Township at a high speed when he missed the M-18 intersection. His automobile rolled over three times before coming to rest on its top.

Deputies said that Jenkins was dead when they arrived at the scene. The accident occurred at approximately 11:25 p.m. Jenkins was alone and was not wearing a seat belt.

The Sheriff's Department stated that alcohol was involved, and the accident remains under investigation.

Recycling Center Opens
At County Landfill

The Crawford-Olsego Joint Landfill will be the site of a new Recycling Center.

According to John Miller, director of the landfill, it will be the first operation in Northern Michigan centered at a waste site. He said that newspapers, cardboard, computer paper and metal will be handled.

The center has a baler and shredder and the new building which houses the operation has a loading dock adjoining the processing floor.

A ribbon cutting and open house to initiate the new operation will be held from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Saturday, September 3. Representatives from the Department of Natural Resources Waste Management Division and other state environmental officials will be on hand for the festivities.

Fenced 6,000 Acres
Closed To Public

A DNR Director's order has made it illegal to enter more than 6,000 acres on land on Military Range 30.

Department of Natural Resources' Director, David F. Hales, has ordered that all or portions of sections 17, 18, 19, 20, 29, 30 of T27N, R2W; and sections 13, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27, 34, 35, 36; of T27N, R3W closed to the public. The order stated that, "It shall be unlawful for unauthorized persons to enter these posted and fenced lands." The order further stated, "This order shall take immediate effect and shall remain effective until rescinded." The order was dated June 20, 1988.

This order includes the entire fenced Military Range 30 impact area that surrounds approximately 6,450 acres located north of North Down River Road, and south of County Road 612.

Maj. Foehl, Public Relations Officer for Camp Grayling, has suggested that anyone contemplating using the remaining portion of Military Range 30, or any other military lands for hunting, woodcutting or any other activity should call Camp Grayling or check the Avalanche for the Camp's weekly firing schedule. Foehl stated that the public may not have access to military lands, even with a DNR woodcutting permit, if the military has scheduled training exercises in the area.

The Dixieland Band will be performing live in the Second Annual AuSable Dixieland Band Flotilla. The concert will be held on Lake Margrethe, Saturday, September 3rd, starting at 3 p.m. Bring your boat, friends, and family for an afternoon of fun.

UMRA Schedules Annual Meeting
For Saturday, September 3rd

The annual meeting of the Upper Manistee River Association is set for Saturday, September 3, 10:00 a.m. at Bear Lake Township Hall along M-72 West.

Results of the latest fish shocking checks and chestnut lamprey findings will be reviewed. The activities of the "River Reach Group" and planned river control projects are to be discussed. Also on the schedule are reports on the new Portage Creek access and the great river clean-up of early August.

The election of three members to the association board of directors will also take place. Coffee and registration is scheduled for 9:30 a.m.

Legion Hosts Blood Bank
For Donors September 7

There will be an American Red Cross Blood Bank at the American Legion Hall on Wednesday, September 7th, from noon until 6 p.m.

Blood is in critical supply virtually all over the United States. Non emergency surgery is having to be delayed most everywhere in order to be sure there is sufficient blood for emergency surgery needs.

Because of the outstanding performance of the blood donors in our area this shortage has not become a serious problem in Crawford County, but American Red Cross Blood Banks are working at maximum effort to expand the number of banks and at new locations to increase the supply of life saving blood.

Community Weighs
Camp Grayling's
Pros and Cons

Concerns about Camp Grayling's effect on the area outnumbered presentations of support at public hearings held Tuesday morning and afternoon by the Camp Grayling Management Advisory Committee. The Committee was recently appointed by governor Blanchard to study the impact the military training facility has on northern Michigan.

More than 200 persons attended a public hearing Tuesday, Aug. 30, 8 a.m. - 1 p.m. at the Grayling Holiday Inn and 37 persons gave presentations limited to seven minutes.

Several speakers were concerned about the size of Camp Grayling and the expansion of the camp. Other speakers complained of the National Guard's lack of credibility and the lack of control of the Camp Grayling commander over out-of-state troops training here.

Bernie Fowler, a native of the area and a former U.S. Marine and Grayling Twp. Supervisor, said he has spent more than 40 percent of his life in service or public office for his country.

"I resent very much accusations made the past year that because we dare to question the National Guard's actions we are anti-American, communists, etc."

Fowler said perhaps the first mistake he and other local residents made was not making an issue over the Guard not keeping their word in the early 50's when they said all military activity would be kept one half mile north of North Down River Road.

"Less than two years later, a moving target range was constructed at the northeast corner of Stephan Bridge Rd. and North Down River Rd. The firing line for tanks was only a few hundred feet north of North Down River Rd. This firing line has since been abandoned," Fowler said, "But I see it should have forewarned us of things to come. It is a good example of the type of guard actions I have witnessed over the years."

Civil War Unit
To Be Recreated At Grayling Airport

A small portion of the Civil War will come to life again in Grayling over the Labor Day weekend as Battery D of the 1st Michigan Light Artillery unit will be recreated.

The event, sponsored by the Camp Grayling Minuteman Foundation, will feature persons from southwest Michigan who have preserved a bit of history by living like the soldiers of that battery in 1861. The Battery will be camped at the Grayling Army Airfield on Old 27 north of Grayling on September 3-4. They will demonstrate firing of the cannon and rifle replicas every half hour.

The modern Battery D evolved from an interest in black powder firearms. It is an interpretive history group and also takes part in Civil War reenactments. Battery D strives for authenticity in the personal appearance of its troops and its encampment. The uniforms and equipment of Battery D are representative of the early 1860's.

At the present time Battery D has two replicas of 10-pound Parrott guns. Each is full size, with a range of three miles. The Battery also has reproduction wall tents and a Sibley tent, supply wagon, flags and some original equipment owned by individuals in Both Grayling Mayor Bob Gelnick and Crawford County Commissioner Jeannette Kitchen gave the committee resolutions from their boards which fully supported the National Guard.

"The complainers do not have economic ties in Crawford County," said Kitchen.

She said the county board sees the Camp Grayling issue having two areas of problems. The first problem some people have is with the noise and she said the county board is in sympathy with these people.

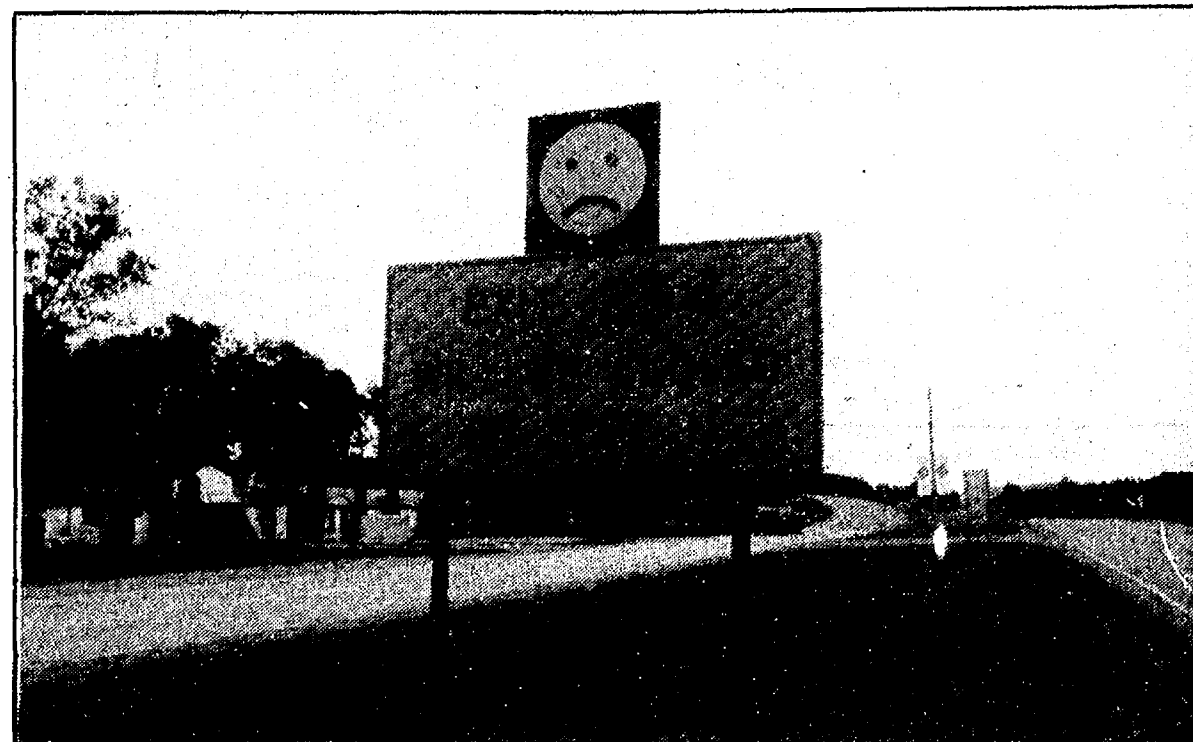

The other problem is human error and misbehavior but the guard works to correct these problems, Kitchen said. She said she hoped that whatever the committee recommends that it would not hurt the county economy.

There are approximately 10,000 people in the county, she said, and the county board is concerned the committee will be hearing comments from only a disgruntled few that will have a detrimental effect on the entire county.

Tuesday afternoon beginning at 2 p.m. representatives of groups made presentations to the committee at the county courthouse. Among the groups who were represented were AuSable Manistee Action Council, the Kalkaska Chamber of Commerce, a Guthrie Lake group, Garfield Twp. in Kalkaska, the Upper Manistee River Association, the Minuteman Foundation, the Grayling Promotional Association, the North Branch Area Association, Grayling Chamber of Commerce, Anglers of the AuSable.

The committee also held a public hearing at Hidden Valley Monday night, Aug. 29, attended by about 200 persons.

A more detailed account of comments from the public hearings will be published in next week's Avalanche. The committee said it would hold as many public hearings as it felt necessary. Audience members requested hearings to also be held on a weekend and downstate.

MDOT TO CLOSE ENTRANCE RAMP — The Michigan Department of Transportation is closing the entrance ramp to Grayling from I-75 for repairs beginning Sunday, September 11. MDOT officials estimate the ramp will be closed for 20 days.

River Front Lot
Sizes Questioned
At Public Hearing

The Grayling Township Planning Commission held a public hearing on Monday, August 29, to receive public input regarding River Bend Estates' PUD application for the former Rayburn property.

The hearing was held in the Joseph Stripe Auditorium at 7:00 p.m.

The Township Planning Commission has been considering whether to recommend to the Grayling Township Board to approve or deny a request from Eugene Kraus, owner of River Bend Estates to rezone his property, previously known as the Rayburn Estate, from Deferred Development (DD) to Planned Unit Development (PUD). Kraus has expressed his intention to develop the property into a condominium site complex and golf course.

Mike Boss, from Boss Engineering, represented Kraus and explained the River Bend Estates project. He fielded questions regarding lot sizes, sewage plans, wetlands protection, golf course development and other concerns expressed by many of the 34 persons in attendance.

Some of the audience disagreed with the project's plan of averaging river frontage property to allow some lots to have over two hundred feet of river frontage and other lots to measure only 150 feet of river frontage. These Crawford County residents stated that all lots should have at least 200 feet of river frontage as the AuSable River Natural Plan, which takes effect on September 30, stipulates.

Other concerns included a request for an environmental impact study to address the effects of the intense development being proposed, and the affect the fertilizers and chemicals used by the proposed golf course will have on the ground water and AuSable

New DNR Office
Construction Could Start Next Spring

The Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has selected the northwest corner of M-93 and I-75 as the site for their new field office.

John MacGregor, Deputy Director of Region II, anticipates that construction on the 1.3 million dollar project will begin in the spring of 1989, and be completed for occupation the following December. MacGregor explained that these plans are only estimates, and depend on several factors. He said that if his department receives the architectural plans this fall, and if these plans are approved without delays, and if the department is able to advertise for constructional bid this winter, then the building program should progress as anticipated.

The lowest bidder will receive the contract.

The new field office complex will include three buildings. There will be two garages equipped with shops, and an administration building. The field office will house the following DNR divisions: Forest Management, Wildlife, Fisheries, Recreation, Administration, and Law. It will also house the U.S. Geological Survey section that is currently located in the old Fish Hatchery building.

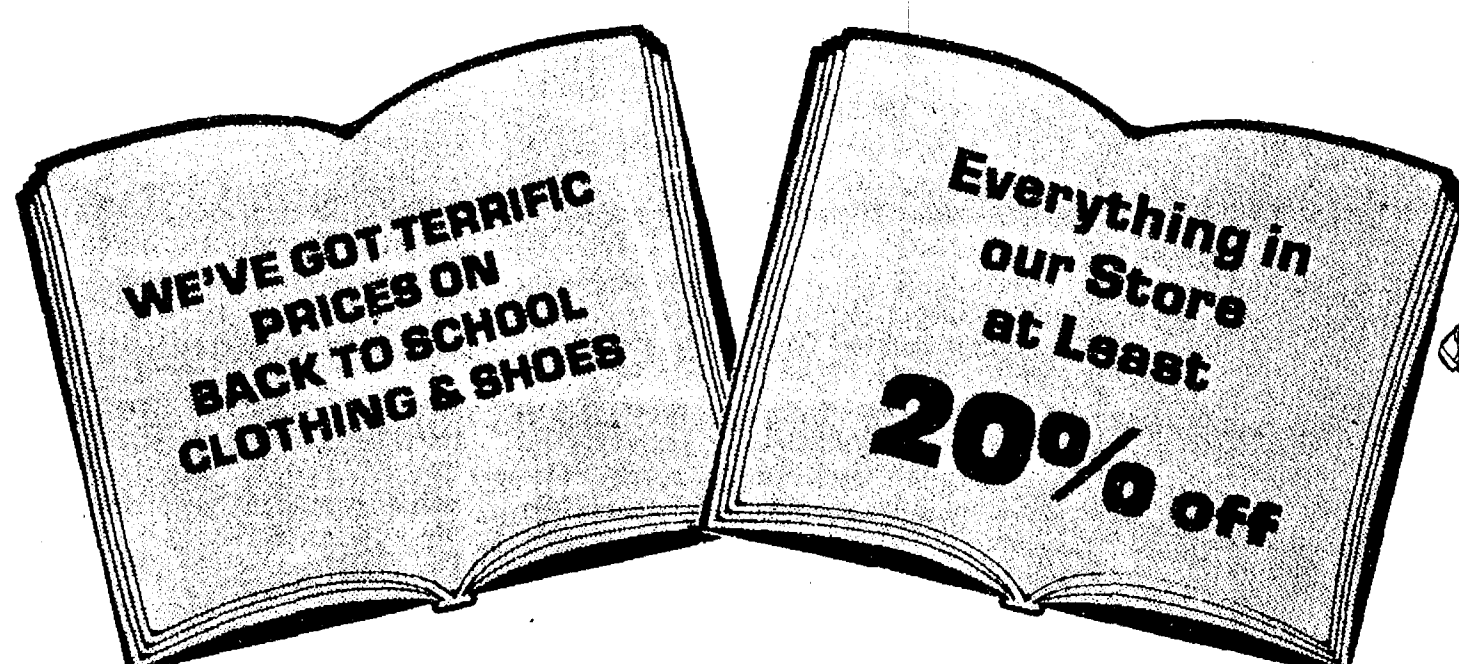

MacGregor credited Ralph Ostling's support for this building project for bringing it to fruition.

RECREATING CIVIL WAR UNIT — Some of the soldiers from Battery D 1st Michigan Light Artillery stand ready to fire their cannons. The Civil War unit will be camped at the Grayling Army Airfield on Sept. 3-4 and will fire cannons and rifles every half hour.

School Boards Deny Property Transfer Request

By an 11-1 vote the joint C.O.O.R. and C.O.P. Intermediate School Boards denied a property transfer request for two lots in Maple Forest Township.

Kenneth Lashway, owner of the land, was asking for the property, located between Briggs Rd. and Section One Lake on the border between Crawford and Otsego counties, to be transferred from Crawford AuSable to Gaylord Community Schools.

Mr. and Mrs. Lashway, who both work in Gaylord, want their two elementary age children to attend the Gaylord schools. The family has established ties with the Gaylord community.

Additionally the two children have health problems and the parents thought it in their best interest to attend Gaylord schools, closer to home and to where the parents work.

The Lashways moved into the house in the spring of 1988. A realty company originally listed the property as being located in the Gaylord School District. The Lashways found out the property was in the Crawford AuSable School District before the actual closing on the sale of the land and decided to try to have the property transferred.

The children attended school in Otsego County last year.

The Crawford-Oscoda-Ogemaw-Roscommon and Cheboygan-Otsego-Presque Isle Intermediate School Boards denied the request at the end of a public hearing Monday night, Aug. 29, at the Grayling High School library attended only by the Lashways and school officials.

One of the reasons the boards denied the transfer because it would create a jerry-mander line between the districts where a straight line now exists.

The Lashways have the right to appeal the decision within 10 days to the state board of education.

River. There was also a recommendation made that the Township provide persons attending public hearings with a complete report of proposals so that persons attending can understand the situation and respond accordingly. The Planning Commission stated that there was important information that they had only recently received. So recently, that they had not had time to digest the material.

Several people spoke out in favor of the development, saying that it would increase employment, increase tourism, and increase the county's tax base.

Mary Allen, member of the Planning Commission, stated that the Planning Commission was asking themselves and members of Kraus' development team many of the same questions that had been addressed at the hearing. She said the Commission would not be making any recommendations until they were satisfied that all their questions and concerns as well as those posed by the public were answered in a positive manner.

Douglas Dosson, attorney for the Grayling Township Planning Commission, explained the responsibility of the commission in this matter as being three fold. He said that the Planning Commission must first decide whether or not the PUD criteria has been met by the applicant, Eugene Kraus. Secondly, they must discern in the subjective portions of the applications, what the intent of the criteria is. They must also decide whether the application conforms with Grayling Township's master development plan. Lastly, the commission must decide to either recommend for approval or denial of the application to the Township Board.

The Township Planning Commission announced that it would be meeting for a special work session on Thursday, September 1, at 7:00 p.m. at the Grayling Township offices. This meeting will allow Planning Commission members to review questions and concerns from the public hearing, and to study the newest information supplied to them from Kraus' engineers and attorneys.

Northern Views

By Jon Thompson
Avalanche Editor

Did you see the defensive fielding gem by Walt Terrell Friday night to save a game for the Tigers? With the winning run about to cross the plate, Terrell made an off-balance submarine throw as accurate and as hard as you'll ever see to nip a runner at first for the 3rd out in the bottom of the ninth.

Detroit went on to win the game in extra innings and it turned out to be an important win sandwiched among 5 losses.

The entire Detroit-Milwaukee series was exciting last weekend with three tight games. Last year's big comeback over Toronto and this year's race are more thrilling than the 1984 season when Detroit blew everyone away to win it all.

On another sports note, the Avalanche will sponsor a football contest for readers beginning next week. Each week someone will win $50 for picking the most winners among pro and college games. Check the back page next week for the games to pick and contest rules.

Another new item in the Avalanche will be short features on new businesses in our county. The new business stories and photographs will be run on the Business Page along with our regular Business Feature. The regular Business Feature will continue to highlight established businesses in the area and will emphasize the beginnings of older businesses such as last week's feature on Caid's Grocery approaching its 50th year.

I received a complimentary phone call last week from one of my teachers I had during elementary school in Grayling. It was really nice to hear from her, especially considering I was a bit of a troublemaker in school.

If there are any teachers out there who feel they don't play a very important part in most of their students' lives, please don't think this way.

I can still remember every good teacher I had and I hope I still carry some of their good qualities they passed on to their students.

Bush struggles for spotlight

WITH COMPLETION of the Republican national convention, the presidential lineups for the November election have now been finalized.

We now know it will be George Bush and Dan Quayle for the Republicans, against Michael Dukakis and Lloyd Bentsen for the Democrats.

What we don't know — even after being exposed first to the endless hours of the Democratic national convention, and then to more endless hours of the Republican national convention — is what issue, what event, what development will determine the people's choice in November.

WHO WOULD HAVE predicted, for example, that Vice President Bush would emerge from the Republican convention, flush with the decisiveness of his triumph and riding the crest of a week of national media exposure, only to be blocked off the front page for days on end after the New Orleans gala? Yet, that's how it turned out.

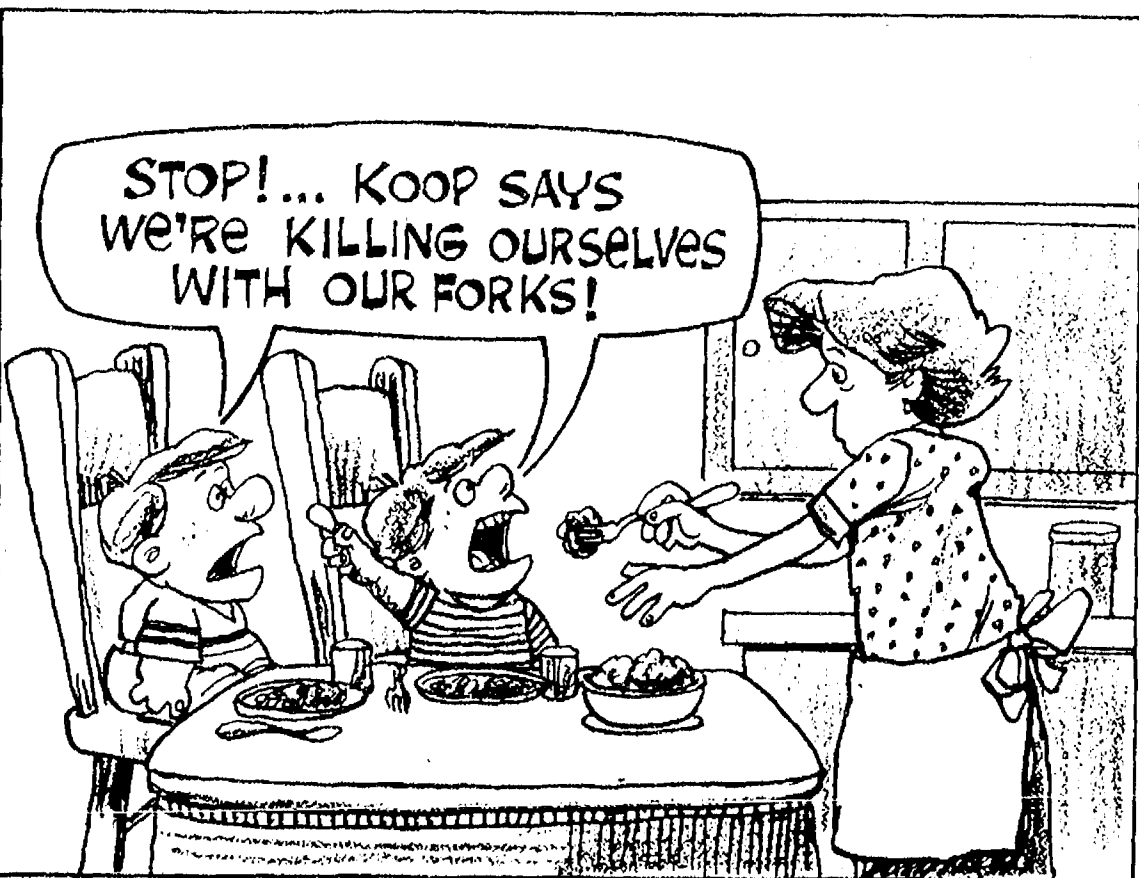

Mr. Bush's choice of young Sen. Quayle certainly raised more questions than it answered; and the public — or at least the media, representing the public — continued the quest for more answers, more information about the relatively unknown running mate.

IN THE MEANTIME, Mr. Bush has to battle for recognition. The situation is of Mr. Bush's own doing, of course. He's the one who tapped Mr. Quayle for his running mate. Certainly Mr. Bush was aware of Mr. Quayle's golfing trips, of his service in the National Guard, of his law school record, and of who knows what else.

What seems clear is that Mr. Bush did not properly interpret the significance of all these parts of Mr. Quayle's past in the context of presidential politics.

Perhaps it will all simmer down, as Mr. Bush expects. But in the meantime, the presidential nominee must struggle for attention, while the vice-presidential nominee occupies the spotlight. Clearly it was not supposed to work out that way.

A Bit of Michigan History

By Elmer L. Fenton

Isn't it great that several thousand people are able to walk across the Straits of Mackinac each Labor Day. Wouldn't it be a surprise to the past anti-bridge idea people if they could be here to join the walkers?

Looking through my historical archives, I came across this interesting article.

"Through Governor Comstock and associates, Michigan has been to Washington the past week endeavoring to get funds with which to build a bridge across the Straits of Mackinac. This is to cost 35 million dollars. You can be rest assured there will be no money put up for such a half-baked idea as a Mackinac Straits Bridge unless the State of Michigan guarantees the payment. If Comstock's idea of a bridge miles long ever is carried out, the taxpayers will eventually pay plenty. Many engineers have pronounced the idea silly and impractical. It will be a costly burden for years. The people of Michigan should let Washington know that they are opposed to Comstock's Colossal Folly."

Governor Comstock took office in 1933.

Embezzlement Leads To Increased D.S.S. Financial Controls

Social Services Director C. Patrick Babcock outlined plans to correct procedures which may have permitted the alleged embezzlement of $628,000 in child care funds by department employee Terry Brenner.

Babcock, in a report to Governor James Blanchard, calls for a wide range of actions that will make certain that adequate separation of duties and other internal controls are put into operation.

The department has also conducted three internal investigations as a result of the embezzlement, called the largest in state history, which led to the arrest of Brenner and eight others.

While admitting that the report found some problems in the system, Babcock said there is no indication of other criminal activity than that uncovered.

"I'm confident these type of procedures virtually eliminate fraudulent payments," he said. "The steps called for...will immediately tighten our fiscal control."

The report details additional verification steps, authorization processes and auditing functions that have either already been implemented or will be put in place over the next few months, some of which came after the internal investigations.

Major points of the report include:

—A payment threshold framework has been established to limit the expenditures an individual can authorize. The procedure, to begin September 1, replaces the current system in which the bureau or office handled payments.

—Signatory authority for payments cannot be delegated.

—A chief financial officer is to be appointed to act as financial controller for the department.

—Requirements are being increased to ensure that accurate and appropriate documentation exists for all expenditures.

—Roles and responsibilities and lines of authority with regard to financial operations are being clarified.

—Top management will be required to submit quarterly progress reports regarding corrective actions taken.

Brenner, suspended from his job as director of placement services, is accused of using his position to channel money to non-existent day-care centers. He faces more than 30 charges of larceny by false pretenses and three counts of forgery in connection with the payment of DSS money to people across the state.

Babcock said an insurance claim for $620,000 has been filed. He said the Department of Management and Budget is processing ing the claim, but he hopes that within 8-12 weeks the alleged embezzlement will be recovered through a surety bond.

Although the alleged embezzlement was not noticed until an informant tipped Lansing police in June, Babcock said the fraud would have eventually been uncovered by the DSS through normal audit procedures.

The embezzlement apparently went on for eight months, beginning just after Brenner's department was audited.

Babcock said there were "five or six" individuals in DSS who should have questioned the payments, but he said it was not clear what their role was, a problem that he will attempt to solve through better checks and balances.

State's Infant Mortality Decreases in 1987

Michigan's infant mortality rate dropped to 10.9 per 1,000 live births from 11.4 in 1986, the Department of Public Health reported.

The rates for black infants remained far worse than for whites, although both did decrease: blacks to 21.9 percent from 23 percent and whites to 8.5 percent from 9 percent.

The overall change represents 32 fewer infant deaths in 1987, when 1,533 babies died, compared to the year before even though there was an increase in live births of 2,505 to 140,130.

Michigan's 4.4 percent reduction in the mortality rate was better than the national average of 3.8 percent. But Raj Wiener, acting director of the department, said areas of the state are of greater concern than others.

For example, she said, improvement in Detroit was only marginal, with overall infant mortality decreasing by 1 percent. The decrease for white babies was .8 percent while the black rate decreased by just .2 percent.

Among the efforts being made at the state level to reduce the mortality level, Wiener said, are increased availability of prenatal care and an enrollment increase in the state's Women, Infants and Children supplemental food program.

The infant mortality rate is based on the number of babies who die in their first year of life per 1,000 live births.

The state will spend $30.5 million in 1988-89 in state and federal funds through the Department of Social Services and DPH, up from $20.1 million this year. Most of the money is federal; $10.4 million is state general funds in 1988-89 and $8.4 million is general funds this year.

Notes from the Woods

By Nancy Lemmen
Avalanche Columnist

"Tell us another story about when you were in school," the nephews said to my brothers and me. We were spending a week in a cottage on Houghton Lake as a final family get-together before the little guys went home to Illinois and autumn and school, one to fourth grade and the other to kindergarten.

Lunch was finished, but the three generations continued to sit around the table as the adults shared old school memories. The boys had eaten their fill of sandwiches, chips, cookies and milk, but they were still hungry for more stories of a school district long ago and far away.

Uncle Mike told them that he remembered lots of times that he had been reprimanded in school, most of them deserved. But he recalled one time when his principal mistook him for another student and gave him a stern lecture intended for the other boy.

My brother Mark says that, unlike Mike, he did few things requiring disciplinary action while in school. But he didn't like to be pushed around by his teachers. He remembered one time when his journalism instructor made such excessive demands that he went to the assistant principal to get justice served.

I can recall the start of seventh grade in a new middle school and in a new town. The school gymnasium was being renovated, so our physical education classes were held in the back of the auditorium, where we were told to sit quietly while band class was held on stage.

A friendly girl and I whispered together and didn't see the band director walk back to interrupt us. "You! You! To the office!"

My brothers and I have forgotten the exact details of our brushes with authority figures, but Mike remembered his confusion and Mark remembered his anger and I remembered my embarrassment.

Like my nephews, I'm returning to school soon. Like my teacher colleagues, I want to have a positive influence on the lives of my students. I don't want to be remembered at some future family gathering as a person who mistakenly reprimanded the wrong child, a teacher who made unreasonable demands, an adult who frightened the scared new kid trying to make a friend.

I worry about it, though. I see 150 or more students during a school day, and some nights I lie awake in bed and wonder what kind of effect I'm having on them. Did I hurt someone's tender feelings with a sarcastic remark? Did I frighten a timid child with a cruel reprimand? Did I ignore a young person's need for attention because I was too busy?

Do my students like school more or less for having been in my class? Do they value the subject matter that I teach? Is what they have learned from me important? Will it help them to get into college? Get a good job? Lead a fuller life?

The medical profession works under the guiding principle, "Do no harm." The hope, of course, is that the actions of a doctor will benefit the patient. But at the very least, a doctor should choose the course of action which will leave a patient no worse than before treatment.

In an education class I took last summer, the professor told us students — teachers, administrators, paraprofessionals and parents — that "Do no harm" should be applied to our dealings with students. I like that. I believe that any adult who deals with children and young people would do well to make that his own guiding principle.

Today's students will grow up soon. In a few short years that will go faster than any of us can believe, they will be sharing childhood memories with their children and then with their grandchildren. I hope a few of them will remember me as a teacher who listened or helped or laughed or understood or taught them well. I hope each day that I will do no harm.

FARSIGHTEDNESS
QUESTION: How common is farsightedness?
ANSWER: Farsightedness is the condition of the eye in which distance objects are seen clearly and close objects are not. About half of all people wearing eyeglasses do so to clearly focus on objects close up. To correct for farsightedness a couple of different approaches may be taken. Eyeglasses designed to be worn only for close up viewing such as reading may be used or spectacles that could be worn all the time - but with no distance correction can solve the problem. The choice will depend on an individual's activities such as how much reading or close up viewing is done. Eyeglasses designed for only reading will give a wider viewing area and generally lenses designed to look at a distance and at near have a smaller reading area.

16 Bald Eagles Reported in County

More than 1,300 eagle sightings were reported by Michigan residents during the 1988 winter survey. Michigan residents sighting bald eagles from January through March were asked to send a postcard with the date, specific location, and number of eagles seen to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) "Eagle Alert" project headquarters. After sorting out duplicate reports from the 1,300 sightings, wildlife managers in the State's Natural Heritage Program estimate that 389 eagles wintered in Michigan during January through March.

Eagles were reported in 68 of Michigan's 83 counties during the 1988 survey. The highest numbers of bald eagles were found in the Upper Peninsula counties of: Menominee (30), Iron (24), Dickinson (21), Delta (19), and Mackinac (17) and in the Lower Peninsula counties of: Saginaw (17), Montmorency (17), Crawford (16), Alpena (15), Oscoda (14), Presque Isle (14), and Roscommon (12).

"These reports provide valuable information for additional surveys and management work," said Tom Weise, DNR Endangered Species Coordinator. "We need to know where our eagles spend the winter so that critical winter habitat can be preserved to help increase the birds' breeding population."

Many of the state's nesting eagles remain in scattered sectors of both peninsulas during the cold weather months, but some, notably immature birds, leave Michigan to winter elsewhere. Eagles that do winter in Michigan are most apt to be seen near open water areas where they can find food. This year's survey results continue to follow a trend in which more of the birds have been recorded in Michigan during recent winters.

The increase in the number of wintering eagles observed and recorded in 1988 is believed to be largely due to the increase in the number of reports sent in this year. The enthusiastic public involvement in this year's survey can be largely attributed to increased public awareness and interest in Michigan's eagles.

Mild winter conditions should result in continued good productivity of eaglets in 1988, because adults entered their nesting season in good condition. Those mild conditions probably kept more eagles here than in most years, adding to the survey's total winter sightings.

Wildlife biologists hope to see Michigan's bald eagle population increase to 200 nesting pairs by the turn of the century. "Last summer, an all-time high of 137 pairs nested in the State and produced 149 young," reported Weise.

Contributions to the Michigan Nongame Wildlife Fund made it possible to carry out this survey.

22 YEARS OF SERVICE — Grayling Mayor Robert Golnick presents his brother Karl E. Golnick a plaque honoring him for his 22 years of service for the Grayling City and Township Fire Dept. The Grayling City Council and Mayor presented the award at a recent council meeting.

SPORTS FANS!

I
Bet
You Didn't Know

Brought To You
By Laurie Scheer

Here's one of the most incredible records in sports... There's a major league basketball team that's not had a losing season for 60 CONSECUTIVE YEARS... What college is it? The University of Kentucky has not had a losing season in basketball since 1927 -- and no other team in any major sport has ever come close to that record.

All sports fans have heard of Bo Jackson who's played both major league baseball and football -- but few fans know what Bo's real first name is... It's Vincent (Bo) Jackson -- and by the way, he's the first player in history to hit as many as 22 home runs in big league baseball AND score as many as 6 touchdowns in the National Football League the same year... Bo did both of those things in 1987.

Now that the Winter Olympics are being held this year in Calgary, Canada, do you know where and when the Winter Olympics were held in the U.S.? The Winter Olympics have been in the U.S. 3 times -- in 1932 and 1980 at Lake Placid, N.Y., and in 1960 in Squaw Valley, Calif.

I bet you didn't know... that Scheer Motors has a great selection of new and used cars and trucks from Chevrolet, Pontiac, Oldsmobile, Buick, Cadillac, Chrysler, Plymouth, and Dodge. How about that? We have to have the one you want at '88 model clearance prices! Let Laurie Scheer show you the one that's right for you!

United Way Purchases Public Address System For Community Use

A public address system is now available for community group use, courtesy of the Crawford County United Way Board of Directors. According to 1988 Campaign co-chairperson Donna O'Grady, the new P.A. system, which made its debut at the Crawford County Fair earlier this month, can be used by other local organizations needing it.

The seven-part system, which can be used both indoors and outdoors, includes two microphones, two microphone stands, two speakers and one amplifier. A $50 deposit is required when the equipment is borrowed, and will be returned if the system is not damaged. Organizations with the ability or desire to contribute to United Way are welcome to do so when they use the system.

tem. Checks should be made to: Crawford County United Way.

O'Grady says that community agencies had expressed a need for a public address system. Since the 1987 United Way campaign exceeded its goal, the Board thought the purchase of the system would be a good way to both serve the community in general and to thank the County for its tremendous response last year.

The United Way Board has identified 19 groups to receive funds from the 1988 fall campaign and hopes that the community will respond generously again this year.

To find out more about the public address system or to reserve the equipment, call Donna O'Grady or Bob Porter between 8:00 a.m. and 5:00 p.m., Monday through Friday, at the Department of Social Services (348-7691).

H&R Block to Offer

Tax School in this Area

Thousands of people are learning the skill of income tax preparation from H&R Block and are earning money as income tax preparers.

H&R Block, the world's largest income tax preparation service, is offering a basic income tax course starting September 7th and 8th, with morning, evening classes available. Classes will be offered at many convenient area locations.

During the 13 week course, students will study all phases of income tax preparation and receive actual experience in preparing individual returns. Experienced Block instructors will teach current laws, theory and application, as practiced in Block offices nationwide. There is a classroom discussion on each tax subject and practice problems at every level. Courses are programmed to teach students increasingly complex tax problems as study progresses. Students will find the course both interesting and challenging.

Courses are ideally suited for people who want to increase their tax knowledge and learn how to save money on taxes or who are looking for a rewarding career. No prerequisites are required to enroll.

Qualified course graduates may be offered job interviews for positions with Block. Many accept employment with Block because of the flexible hours available. However, Block is under no obligation to offer employment, nor are graduates under any obligation to accept employment with H&R Block.

One low course fee includes all textbooks, supplies and tax forms necessary for the completion of the course. Certificates and 7.5 continuing education units will be awarded upon successful completion of the course. Master, Visa and Discover cards are accepted, or a time payment plan is available.

Correction

The directions to the Native American Arts and Crafts Council's Cultural Center should have read eight miles west of Grayling on M-72, north of Goose Creek Rd. for one-half mile, then east on a dirt road. The directions published in the Aug. 25th issue mistakenly said eight miles east of Grayling.

A Wilcox family reunion was held at the Hartwick Pines State Park on Saturday, August 20th, with 95 in attendance.

There were 5 generations represented, Edna (Wilcox) Lazarowicz and 5 of her 6 children.

Prizes were won by: Edna Lazarowicz, 83, oldest; A.J. and JanEl Wilcox, adults coming the farthest: Palm Bay, Florida.

Children coming the furthest were Nicole and Clark Wilcox, Jr., Justin Moore and Eugene Lyons coming from California; John Wilcox III, oldest bachelor (never having been married), 35; Edna and Harold Babbitt with the most sons and daughters in attendance, 6; Linda and Larry Putvin, with the youngest child Mara at 7 months old.

Besides the playground equipment and walking through the park and museum, everyone enjoyed badmitten, horseshoes, T-Ball, croquet, volleyball, wicker ball, and softball.

It is hoped that the next reunion will be held the 3rd week of August in 1990.

Michael Ryan Elliott of Ann Arbor spent last week with his grandmother, Mary Jane Knibbs.

Erin Welsh of Bridgeport spent last week with her grandparents, Tom and Marian Welsh. Her other grandparents, LeRoy and Marie Akers took her home over the weekend.

Dr. Philip Cherven of Hutchinson, Kansas, spent a week visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Al Cherven at Lake Margrethe recently. He returned to his home after picking up his daughter Leslie who spent the summer at the Interlochen music camp.

Heather and Bob Hutton and their son, Jimmy were just three of over thirty-five friends and relatives who were entertained by Jim and Shirley Bonnington. Heather and Bob are the Bonnington's daughter and son-in-law from Royal Oak, Michigan. Craig and Pat Bonnington and their sons, Andrew and Adam were also here for the gathering. Craig, Pat, Andrew and Adam came from Berkley, Michigan, to join their mother and father, sister, brother-in-law, many friends and a special visit from Alison and Andrew Gledhale who were here from Ossett, West Yorkshire, England. Alison and Andrew are cousins to Jim and Shirley Bonnington. While the large group was here they all went on a canoe/camping trip for a week on the Manistee River.

Charlie Stinson, grandson to Gus and Sammie Williams of Grayling, was fishing on Lake Michigan and caught a 38 inch long, 28 pound salmon. This hefty catch will not end up being just a fish story because Charlie's dad got it all on video. And they are going to have the prize fish mounted. Charlie and his mother and father, Sharon and Lewie Stinson live in Cadillac.

Art and Mary Jane Thayer recently returned from a trip in their travel trailer to the 42nd annual convention and National Reunion of the "Sea Bees" in Lacrosse, Wisconsin. The Sea Bees is the Navy construction equivalent to the Army Corp of Engineers. Art was in the 126th Battalion and this is the seventh year in a row that the 126th Battalion got the trophy for the largest attendance at this annual reunion. They enjoyed themselves immensely at the reunion and plan to attend next year's which will be in Toledo, Ohio. During their travels to LaCrosse, the Thayers stopped by the Heileman Brewery to test the beer there.

Paula Jackson turned 70 years old August 21. She was surprised when 30 people showed up to celebrate with her. Elizabeth Jackson, Paula's daughter, arranged a successful surprise birthday party for Paula in which not only 30 friends and relatives were there to yell surprise but she also received a call from a nephew in Israel and another call from a niece in Israel and a mailgram from a nephew in Israel. Paula also received a call from a nephew in Tacoma, Washington.

Thank you for all your calls with such great bits of talk. Keep them coming. My number is 348-7439 evenings and 348-6171 days.

KCC Helps Otsego Study College Needs

By Irene Pettyjohn

Kirtland Community College and Otsego County are working together to examine the higher educational needs of the residents of Otsego County.

Dr. Steven B. Perry, Vice President of Kirtland Community College, announced the signing of a memorandum of understanding between the Otsego County Board of Commissioners and Kirtland Community College to "explore the possibilities for a higher education opportunity in the greater Otsego County area" at a press conference held at 10 a.m. on Thursday, August 25, at the Shoppenagon Hotel.

Donald J. Morath, staff aide for the Otsego County Board of Commissioners, has been assigned the job of addressing some of the preliminary issues of a possible college project located in Gaylord. Morath is temporarily on loan to the Board of Commissioners from the Otsego Sheriff's Department.

Morath explained that the Otsego County Board of Commissioners are looking at several possible uses for the buildings and property that was once the Alpine Center Complex located north of Gaylord on Old 27. Morath said that some of the possible uses that the commissioners are considering are a senior citizen housing complex, a geriatric care facility for male prisoners, and a women's prison. Morath said that before the Board of Commissioners makes any decision, they want to explore the educational option, because they feel that this would be the most positive use of the property.

The Otsego County Board of Commissioners has contacted several colleges that have had a history of service to Otsego County. Morath stated that the most responsive of the colleges contacted was Kirtland Community College. He also stated that the Otsego County Board of Commissioners and Kirtland Community College have entered into an agreement for research and development of the educational options both administratively and the use of the Alpine Center as a college facility.

Dr. Perry said that Kirtland, being in the education business, has responded to Otsego County's request by appointing a task force to assist the county complete a needs study to determine how the people of Otsego County and the surrounding areas feel about the possible higher education option. This study began in April of 1988, and should be completed by October 15.

The Kirtland Community College task force consists of the following members: Dr. Steven B. Perry, Vice President; Jerry Hayes, Vice Chairman of the Board of Trustees; Richard Silverman, Dean of Instruction; Paul Durbin, Assoc. Dean of Instruction; Dwight McIntyre, Business Manager; Cary Vajda, Director of Student Services; Katherine Glosser, Director of Health Occupations; and Laren Thorsen, Director of Law Enforcement. This membership includes Kirtland's entire administrative team and two members of the Board of Trustees.

The Otsego County Board of Commissioners has budgeted approximately $12,000 for the study, and members of Kirtland's Board of Trustees and administrative staff have visited the Alpine Center to review the facility.

Dr. Perry stressed that although Otsego County has allocated funds to finance the study and have hired Morath to complete the feasibility study, Kirtland's role has been to provide the resources available through the college to help Otsego County determine whether or not a need exists for a higher education facility in their county. He said that Kirtland's assistance has not been financial, but rather the sharing of educational support services to ensure that the speculation of the implementation of the project before the needs study is completed. "The college needs to have good data, and the county needs to have good data," said Dr. Perry, "to convince both ourselves and the public that there is a need. That is the way we go about things at our institution."

Morath explained that Kirtland Community College has been providing educational services to Otsego County on an outreach basis for years. He pointed out that a small portion of Otsego County is in the Kirtland district and supports the college through their taxes. He said that Kirtland has always been responsive to the needs of the business community, governmental community and the community at large and offered courses to meet those needs. The Kirtland Community College's nursing program has a clinical facility at the Otsego Memorial Hospital. He said that it seems natural that Kirtland should now assist Otsego County evaluate their educational needs.

"We are committed to the project," said Dr. Perry. "I think the task force membership list is quite impressive." Dr. Perry said that the manner in which the community of Gaylord has responded to the project is equally impressive. "The County should be applauded for pulling together just about every segment of the community. I can't think of a segment that has not been represented or involved in at least the main committee or a subcommittee there."

Morath said that the needs study will be given to the Otsego County Board of Commissioners by October 15, and that he estimates that they will be ready to act on the report by the end of 1988.

The Bible Speaks

From Calvary Baptist Church

The Gospel of John

Part 47
Blind Beggar sees
Miracle Man

As John chapter eight revealed rejected light from God, so chapter nine tells us of a blind beggar who received God's light, and continued to grow in wisdom and knowledge of God. Jesus took the initiative contacting the man blind from birth. (John 9:1). His disciples thought this blindness was the direct result of sin. (John 9:2). Jesus reminded them that the blindness came not from sin, but was part of God's plan for God's glory. (John 9:3). Jesus told them He came to perform such works of deliverance. (John 9:4). He said, "As long as I am in the world, I am the light of the world." (John 9:5). The healing of the blind was one of Christ's greatest miracles which proved His deity.

The miracle was performed in a most unusual way. "When he had thus spoken, he spat on the ground, and made clay of the spittle, and he anointed the eyes of the blind man with the clay. And said unto him, Go, wash in the pool of Siloam, (which is by interpretation, Sent.) He went his way therefore, and washed, and came seeing." (John 9:6, 7). This gives us a picture of Jesus as a human being. Using spit and dust in the healing process was no doubt repulsive to many people for different reasons. God is not limited by human methods and opinions. God is sovereign and always right.

The neighbors of the blind man looked at him as an idle beggar, and were confused by this miracle. (John 9:8). They questioned his identity. (John 9:9). They questioned his miracle. (John 9:10). He told them, "I am he" and told them about Jesus. "He answered and said, A man that is called Jesus made clay, and anointed mine eyes, and said unto me, Go to the pool of Siloam, and wash: and I went and washed, and I received sight." (John 9:11).

This social reject was considered a sinner by the disciples, an idle beggar by his neighbors, but a human being in need by Jesus Christ. We too were born spiritually blind. That his why Jesus told Nicodemus, "...Verily, verily, I say unto thee, Except a man be born again, he cannot see the kingdom of God." (John 3:3). We cannot see spiritual things until the Spirit of God quickens us with the Word of God and brings us into the family of God. The first view we see of Jesus is his human work as He died on the cross for sins. He had to be a man to die on the cross for our sins. "Who his own self bare our sins in his own body on the tree, that we, being dead to sins, should live unto righteousness: by whose stripes ye were healed." (1 Peter 2:24). Have you received Jesus, the miracle working God/man?

AT THE CROSS

I had just finished an after-dinner address at a convention of medical doctors. Several were coming by, introducing themselves, and spending a few moments in general conversation.

One elderly physician approached with some difficulty, holding the arm of a younger doctor with one hand and gripping tightly onto his walking cane. His smile required his entire face to express itself.

We talked a few moments about a point or two I made during the address. It was then that I spotted a beautiful gold cross, rather large, dangling on the end of a long chain, presenting itself prominently on his chest.

"I see you have the cross, doctor," I said, smiling and gently touching it.

"Yes," he said. "And everything that goes with it," and he limped on his way, still smiling that big smile.

My eyes followed him through the crowd, as if transfixed. I thought: his "cross" is not his burden; not his limp; not his aging infirmity. No. His "cross" is in his face—his smile—not in his limp.

And that's where the CROSS always ends up: on our faces, expressing "everything that goes with it."

The old hymn is right: "At the cross, at the cross, where I first saw the light..."

Carpenter Ants May Become Indoor Pests

by Roy Spangler
County Extension Director
Cooperative Extension Service.

Hundreds of species of ants live in the United States. Fortunately, most of them never think about coming indoors.

In Michigan, a number of ants may become household pests, but the ant capable of causing the most trouble inside is the carpenter ant.

"Generally, a large black ant one-fourth to one-half inch long is likely to be a carpenter ant," says Gary Dunn, Extension entomologist at Michigan State University. "They get their name from their habit of excavating wood for their nests."

Unlike termites, they don't eat the wood. But the end result is the same: wood riddled and weakened by the insects' excavations.

Carpenter ants usually start their excavating in moist wood. Once it gets established, an ant colony generates enough moisture to support decay fungi. Together, the ants and the fungi can do serious damage.

"Carpenter ants sometimes come into the house on firewood," Dunn points out. "Any wood that you suspect of harboring ants should be left outdoors until you're ready to put it on the fire."

If in midwinter you find big black ants indoors that could not have come inside on firewood, you can generally assume they are nesting inside. At any time of the year, finding five or more ants in your house in one day suggests an infestation nearby.

Observe the ants' coming and going to determine whether they are coming in from outdoors. If the ants' travels take them over the doorkill at one corner of an exterior door that doesn't fit tightly, you know they're coming in from outdoors. If you trace them behind the refrigerator to a hole behind the baseboard or an electrical outlet, they may or may not be nesting inside.

The best way to control an ant infestation is to treat the nest directly with an insecticide for ant control. If you can't find the nest, you will have to use insecticidal sprays or dusts on surfaces where ants crawl.

Spray or sprinkle insecticide dust as close as possible to the place where you think the nest is located. Be sure to treat cracks or other openings that ants use to enter a room or nearby surfaces they may crawl over. Spray or dust once a month and give the insecticide a few days to take effect. If ants still appear, they are entering over surfaces you failed to treat. It may take several treatments to achieve control.

If ants are coming in from outdoors, try to find the nest and apply an insecticide. To discourage future ant invasions, you can treat the ground around foundation walls and under porches and steps with insecticide in granular form.

Carpenter ants may be nesting in decaying wood inside the house or in rotten wood outside and merely coming to forage for food. Removing the decaying log or tree stump or replacing any rotting wood in your house needs to be part of the control process. If you fail to do this, the welcome mat will be out for another invasion.

Baits are sometimes effective in controlling ants when you can not find the nest," Dunn says. "Baits contain a poison that foraging workers eat and carry back to the nest to feed the queen and immature ants. To be effective, baits must be attractive to foraging ants. For instance, a sugar-based bait will not appeal to ants foraging on grease. And even a bait that the ants would find desirable won't work if you don't put it where the ants will run into it."

BUDDY'S WORKSHOP

Solar-Powered Water Heaters

I realize that there are no tax incentives left, but I am still considering installing a solar-powered water heating system. We have an 80 gallon water heater, and it still isn't enough. Exactly how do they work, and will it be worth the time, effort, and expense?

Basically, water is pumped from your home to the solar collector (most of the time, on your roof) where it is heated by the sun. The solar collector is nothing more than black "fins" which absorb the sun's rays. The water is circulated through the collector where it picks up heat, and then it flows back into your home and into a solar tank. This tank is filled with water that has been warmed by the water from the collector, and it is attached to your current water heater. After the water from the collector warms the water in the solar tank, it goes back to the collector to be reheated by the sun.

I can't tell you if it will be worth the effort and expense. It depends on where you live, how much hot water your family needs, and whether or not you have a good location for the solar collector. There are mathematical formulas that can tell you if all this is worthwhile. Ask a professional about them. He can tell you if solar-heated water will help.

Checking R-Values of Insulation

The recommended R-values of insulation in the region where I live tell me that the insulation in the outside walls should have a rating of R-11. How do I find out what is in there without tearing down wallboard? And if there isn't enough in there, how do you install more when the house is already finished?

Go to an electrical outlet on an outside wall and remove the cover plate. Then, using a screwdriver (don't forget to turn off the current to the plug) pry around the outlet box until you can see the insulation. Gently pull out a sample of it and take it to a hardware or home center store to have it analyzed. They should be able to tell you the rating. If you don't have enough insulation, more can be blown in through the attic into the exterior walls.

Recipes

By Phyllis Brummer

We have some sauce and dressing recipes for diabetics who cannot eat the commercially prepared dressings. The mayonnaise recipe is the base for several other recipes.

Mineral Oil Mayonnaise

- 1 egg
1 1/2 c. mineral oil
1/3 c. vinegar
1 grain saccharin
1 tsp. prepared mustard
1 tsp. dry mustard
2 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce
Cayenne pepper
1 1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. pepper
1 tsp. cornstarch
1/2 c. water

Beat egg, gradually adding part of the oil. When mixture is thick, add vinegar, the mustards, Worcestershire sauce, sprinkle of Cayenne pepper, salt and pepper. Beat vigorously and slowly add balance of oil. Add saccharin, which has been dissolved in a small amount of hot water and beat again. Mix cornstarch and the half cup of water and stir until cornstarch is dissolved. Cook cornstarch mixture until it is thick and clear and add to egg mixture, beating until smooth. Pour into jar and refrigerate. Makes one and a half pints.

Tartar Sauce

- 2 tbsps. mayonnaise (from recipe above)
1/4 tsp. capers, chopped
1 green onion, chopped
1/3 tsp. dill pickle, chopped
1/3 tsp. parsley, chopped

Combine all ingredients. Makes about one third cup.

Chili Sauce

- 4 medium tomatoes
1 green pepper, chopped
1/2 small onion, chopped
1 c. vinegar
1 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. salt
1 grain saccharin

This recipe calls for saccharin which should not be cooked. If you use another type of sweetening, add it during the cooking process. Mix all ingredients except saccharin and cook slowly about two hours, stirring frequently, until thick, add saccharin and stir until dissolved. This makes about 2 1/2 cups of sauce, so you may want to can some of it in small jars.

Cocktail Sauce

- 1/2 c. chili sauce (from recipe above)
2 tsp. lemon juice
1 tsp. horseradish
1/2 tsp. tabasco sauce
1/4 tsp. onion salt
2 tsp. vinegar
1/4 tsp. celery salt

Combine all ingredients. Makes about one cup of sauce.

If you like lamb, but are not permitted the mint jelly to accompany it, try this:

- Mint Sauce
1 tsp. chopped mint leaves
1/4 c. vinegar
1/4 grain saccharin

Combine all ingredients and let stand one hour in a warm place. Makes 1/4 cup of sauce.

More dressing recipes next week.

Before My Time

If I should go before my time
My love will be around
To try for you — to cry for you
For comfort when you're down.

If I should go before my time
The memories you should keep
Of the times worthwhile — just to see you smile
And a friendship that's so very deep.

If I should go before my time
Do me one good deed.
Do not regret me — and please don't forget me
And do your best to take a lead.

If I should go before my time
Think of me when you see a star
Think of how I love you — as I seek from up above you
And how I'll love you wherever you are.

The Seasons

Today when I stepped outside my door
I realized it was not summer anymore
My eyes detected an autumn haze
That spells the end of summer days.

The wind takes on an autumn chill
Soon frost will all the flowers kill
The days grow shorter day by day
Soon snow upon the ground will lay.

It seems the summer is swiftly gone
While days of winter linger on
Soon Jack Frost will paint the leaves
Beauty will shine on all the trees.

So many shades of red and gold
The hills will shine so bright and bold
Too soon winter's snow blankets all in white
Under the moon all shines so bright.

When we grow tired of winter's cold
The first signs of spring are a joy to behold
When the snow has melted from the ground
Bright spring flowers soon are found.

The days grow longer, the sun is hot
We all seek a shady spot
The summer quickly passes by South bound geese call from the sky.

Another year has slipped away
With moments sad and moments gay
For winter, summer, spring or fall
Have their place we need them all.

GARDEN

Bring Houseplants In When Temperatures Dip

Many gardeners place their houseplants outdoors to enjoy the summer weather. It is now time to begin preparing them for the move back into the house, conservatory, greenhouse or solarium.

Since most houseplants originate in tropical or subtropical areas of the world, they will not survive when the first frost hits them in the fall. So bring them indoors before night temperatures dip below 45 degrees Fahrenheit.

Just as the plants benefit from a gradual change in spring from the house to a shady area and then to a sunny spot for the summer, so also they will benefit by gradually exposing them to reduced lighting after they are taken into the home to overwinter to avoid shock. Plants indoors in the winter with low light, cooler temperatures and shorter days will require much less water than they did outdoors during the summer. Avoid the temptation to overwater. Water thoroughly and let the soil surface dry before watering again. Succulents and a few other plants, however, will do better when the soil is allowed to dry several days after the soil surface is wet. The safe rule of thumb for most houseplants is to water them when the soil surface dries.

If plants become pot-bound, repot them in larger pots. Another practice is to prune the top and roots in equal proportion and repot into the same pot with fresh soil.

When houseplants are repotted with soil containing fertilizer, it is not necessary to feed them again for two months to three months. Fertilize according to directions on the container label. Don't use full strength fertilizer solutions more frequently than every six weeks to eight weeks during the winter.

Resource Review

By Bruce Patrick
Conservation Officer

The Wildlife Conservation Act (Act 374, P.A. 1988) which will replace the Michigan Game Law when it goes into effect by June 1, 1990 has several changes which will impact upon hunters in this state.

For example, a "broken down" firearm will no longer be legal to transport. All firearms will have to be in a case or in the trunk of the vehicle.

Also, the statute clearly states that before a person is eligible for a "permit to hunt from a standing vehicle" he/she must be "unable to walk due to being a paraplegic or an amputee" or "permanently disabled" and "unable to walk". This offers those with a severe handicap the ability to hunt, while preventing the abuses that were prevalent a few years ago.

For most violations of the act, the penalties are stronger, with a minimum fine of $50.00 mandated. For violations regarding the taking or possession of all game, except deer, bear, turkey, moose or elk there is a $100.00 minimum fine. For violations involving taking or possession of deer, bear or turkey there is a minimum fine of $200.00 and at least 5 days in jail. Elk and moose get really expensive.

Violations of the shining section requires a minimum of not less than $100.00 and at least 5 days in jail.

Liquidated damages on unlawfully taken or possessed animals is about the same as at present. However, there are a few changes. Most notably, non-game animals will be worth $100.00. That's a lot of money for a blue jay or a grackle.

Doodles from the Tall Timber

By Wendell L. Hoover
Hartwick Pines Interpreter

By K.J. Koika,
Camp Clerk, Camp 5
Wendell Hoover,
Walking Boss

When a man entered a camp during the logging era, he never knew what types of men he might meet. In camp, there were people from diverse backgrounds. Personalities were bound to clash. Visitors to Hartwick Pines will find Salling-Hanson Camp Five, existing in the year 1893, no different.

One employee at Camp Five who will attest to this is the carpenter or "wood butcher". If a patron asked him about how the men get along, he would probably tell them about Billy James and Joe Hare, two of the camp swampers. Billy is about seventeen, rather short and wears a black cowboy hat. He claims to be Frank and Jesse's long-lost brother, keeping a pistol hidden in his bunk. To keep up this rough cowboy image, he constantly tries to start fights. This is especially true about Joe Hare who sleeps in the bunk above him.

The carpenter will tell you Joe is a victim of the depression which began back in May. He was a city boy who worked for a bank downstate. When the bank closed, Joe lost his job. He came to the camp as a last resort. The boys call him "Jumping Joe" because he is easily startled by the sounds of the forest. Because of this, Billy considers Joe a sissy and constantly picks on him. The tension between them just keeps building. Everyone, including the wood butcher, is just waiting for the big explosion between them.

Billy James and Joe Hare along with Old George Lundeen, Miss Hildegard, Francis Scott Morris, Silver Jack Driscoll, Three Finger Harry and Kit Walker are some of the characters patrons will hear about at Hartwick Pines. Such stories and other tales about life in a logging camp are being told at the park's logging camp by people like the camp clerk, the blacksmith, barroom man, saw filer and carpenter each day, usually between 11 a.m. and 4 p.m.

Country Gifts at a Down-Home Price

By Irene Pettyjohn

When Wood'n Things was still just an "idea", Marty and Arlisle Gillespie toured the north, visiting gift shops from Traverse City to Alpena. They wanted to open a gift shop, but they wanted it to be unique...different than the ordinary gift shop. They wanted to open a business where people could purchase a quality product, a gift for someone else or a piece of country decor for their own home, at an affordable price. After traveling hundreds of miles, they both came to the same conclusion. "We liked the products carried in the gift shops," said Marty, "but we thought the items were grossly overpriced." Marty and Arlisle were convinced that they could open a gift shop, offer quality handmade merchandise at a reasonable price, and still make a profit.

With that goal in mind, and with encouragement from his family and friends, Pat and Eldon Holcomb of Kalkaska, Marty began formulating plans for a business which would allow local artisans an opportunity to "display and market their creations in a country home setting at a reasonable price." During the summer of 1985, Wood'n Things emerged from those plans. The business's first location was a small house next door to the Down River Hardware on M-72 West. The business moved to its present location, one mile west of Grayling on M-72 next to Jim's Farm Market, on July 15, 1986. Wood'n Things is open year-round, Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Selecting Grayling for the location of Wood'n Things was an easy decision, said Marty. The Gillespies had purchased a summer home on the Manistee River in 1976. Before that, they had camped in the Goose Creek area. Marty explained that he has been coming north with his father since 1946. His father, Col. E. Gillespie, was a Boy Scout executive with the Tall Pines Council, and was camp director for Camp Tapico, a Boy Scout camp at Grass Lake, for many years.

Wood'n Things is both a gift shop that specializes in handcrafted country decor merchandise and a furniture refinishing business.

All the merchandise found in the Wood'n Things gift shop is handcrafted by local artists who live within a 75 mile radius of the store. The merchandise is evaluated before it is accepted by a four person jury to insure that the items meet the business's criteria. This criteria requires that the items must be of good quality, must fit in with the Wood'n Things country decor, and must be reasonably priced.

Consignees with merchandise at Wood'n Things come from all walks of life. They are housewives, nurses, accountants, social workers, teachers, students and truckers. They range in age from 9 years to 85 years. All of the artists have carefully developed their crafts.

Patrons of Wood'n Things can select from handcrafted baskets, stained glass, pottery, woodcarving, quilts, ceramics, wreaths, clocks, toys, saw blade painting, leather tooling, and many other beautiful gift items. They will also find a year-round Christmas corner, and Amish dolls of all sizes.

Many of the consignees are willing to do custom work. Marty encourages customers with unusual or specific requests to bring their ideas to Wood'n Things. He is always willing to help whenever possible. "In both the gift shop and the furniture restoration part of the business," stated Marty, "the customer is always the most important person in the shop."

Dick and Pat Jackman make most of the oak merchandise sold at Wood'n Things. These items include shelves, bathroom fixtures, and breadboxes. The Jackman's now have their breadboxes in Hungary, England, Australia and Hawaii.

Christeen Zajner provides all the ceramic work. Marty said that Christeen is both inventive and reasonably priced.

Phil Townley supplies all the wood work done in pine. These items include bookshelves, breadboxes, and wall plaques.

Jim Roland makes birdfeeders, clocks, and mosquito houses. He also makes all types of custom design signs.

Carol Kelly sews all the shop's Amish dolls.

These are just a few of the more than 75 consignees who market their crafts at Wood'n Things. Products are all Michigan made of "durable, attractive and natural materials."

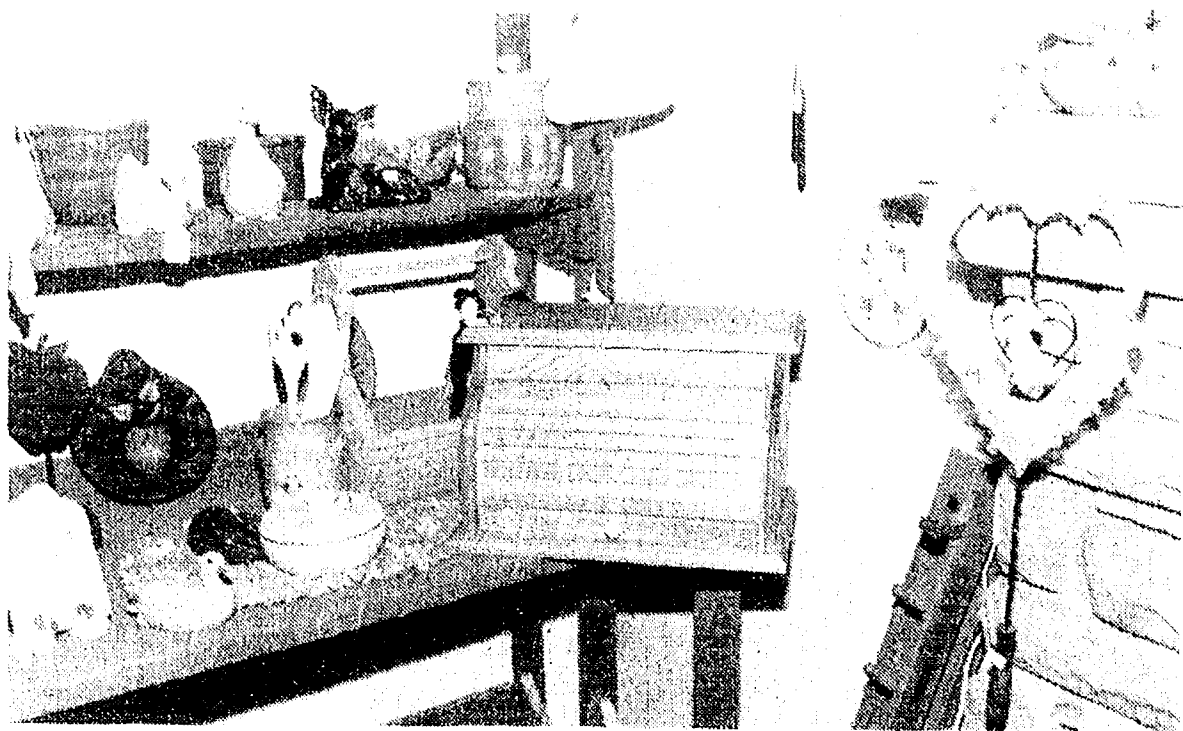

The furniture refinishing and restoration part of Wood'n Things has been growing steadily. Marty does all the refinishing and restoration by hand. Restoration includes all types of furniture repair including replacing broken rockers and chair rungs, regluing and other work necessary to restore that favorite chair or end table. Currently there is a one month waiting period for refinishing projects, so this is the ideal time to consult with Marty to insure that refinished pieces will be back before the holidays.

Wood'n Things also sells refinishing supplies for the do-it-yourselfers. "I feel the stripper we use and market," said Marty, "is the finest in the industry."

Whether the need is for a coat rack or a pottery mug, an early American sampler or a breadbox, an old chair repaired or Adirondack folding patio furniture, Wood'n Things can supply the needed item. Finding all these products and services under one roof certainly makes Wood'n Things an unusual gift shop; however the uniqueness of the business shows itself in the quality of the merchandise, and the affordable price.

INTERNATIONAL BREADBOX — This Jackman breadbox has relatives in Hungary, Australia, England and Hawaii.

New Business

Archer's Alley Opens Sept. 1

Archer's Alley, located on the west side of the M-72 Plaza (the old Bear Archery complex), will open on Thursday, September 1st. It will be open seven days a week from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m.

Ronald Beck is the owner and operator of Archer's Alley. He brings 15 years of archery experience to his new business. Beck is the Montmorency County representative for the Michigan Bow Hunters Assoc., and a member of National Field Archer's Assoc. He is currently living in Lewiston, but plans to relocate in the Grayling area.

Archer's Alley is a tri-faceted business offering retail products, a service center, and range shooting for both open and league shooting. It will feature a full line of Bear archery equipment and accessories. Other equipment will include Golden Eagle, Darton, York, Browning, and PSE bows. The service department will offer professional tuning for compound bows. This service will improve arrow flight, and ensure a smooth quiet action for your bow. Beck will offer camouflage painting as well as a complete repair service.

Area archers will find indoor ranges that permit 30 yard shots and a moving target. Archer's Alley also has an outdoor range that includes a scaffold to provide an opportunity for archers to practice elevated shots.

Beck hopes that Archer's Alley will organize area archers and promote the sport of archery.

"If you enjoy the outdoors and watching the woods come alive around you," said Beck, "why not give bowhunting a try? You will learn bowhunting techniques which will enhance your ability to observe nature."

Archery leagues will begin in September. Anyone interested in signing up for league shooting should register at Archer's Alley. For additional information call Ron Beck at 348-2411.

ARCHER'S ALLEY TO OPEN — Ronald Beck will open Archer's Alley on September 1st, and offer retail sales, service and range shooting.
